Citizens Voice Concern, Divergent Views About Future Of Sunset Center

Monday night, Sunset Center appeared to be the major concern of a large number of community members who packed All Saints' parish hall for the annual Town Meeting, sponsored by the Carmel Citizens Committee, to express their divergent views on the municipal property's use, also control and financing of its operation. During the exchange of ideas, Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret), chairman of the committee, interjected an optimistic note when he stated, "I feel that Sunset is a challenge and an opportunity and, with all due respect to the press, not a 'white elephant'."

Objections from some citizens in the audience to the development of Sunset by a non-profit corporation elicited comments from Councilman Eben Whittlesey and Mayor Herbert Blanks, principal speaker of the evening. "The concept of a non-profit organization," said Mr. Whittlesey, "is a sort of will-of-the-wisp, because it sounds 'nice.'" It is simply a term, he added, "which connotes that you are not going to lease the property to a business corporation dedicating itself to making money for its stockholders." Since foundations are not inclined to give grants to municipalities, funds for the operation and maintenance of a center must come from a non-profit organization or from the total surrounding area, he added.

Mr. Blanks remarked that the term has become a "bugaboo." Such an organization could be composed of five, ten or any number of people, but it would be one separate from city government. "Instead of having to finance deficits through taxes," the mayor pointed out, "you would have a corporate set-up," deriving support from the entire area of interest.

Proponents of maintaining Sunset and its present auditorium suggested the feasibility of placing civic offices in the complex, a proposal long debated by the city council and the Sunset commission. Gordon Gulley, speaking in support of Mrs. Rose Crumrine's statement that she "would like to see the buildings, being used now, remain as they are," said that Sunset, in its present situation (Continued on Page Three)

William Sefton Second Candidate For City Council

This week added another candidate, William Sefton, to the city council race, and Mayor Herbert Blanks and Eric V. Jensen picked up nomination papers at city hall to circulate for the required five signatures of registered Carmel voters. Mr. Sefton filed his papers yesterday.

Mr. Jensen is the owner of the Coast Counties Fire Extinguisher Company and a member of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

Last week, Dr. James Gilman filed his nomination papers with the city clerk. They were signed by James Buffington, Mrs. Joan (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Editor's Column

As of today, two citizens have filed nomination papers and are candidates for election to two vacancies on the city council. Mayor Herbert Blanks and another citizen have picked up papers at city hall.

As it looks at this time, the most controversial civic issue that will be debated before April 12 is the future of Sunset Center. Council members will be elected, it appears, on whether they favor future development and operation of this city property by a non-profit organization, or whether they advocate the city developing and operating the municipal cultural and community center.

The fire department will receive considerable attention, also street lighting in the business district. Every candidate will vow to preserve the character of Carmel. The sanctity of trees and the beach will be extolled. Even the rights of dogs will be unusually respected.

Concurrently with the city election, voters will be involved in another campaign. This one will ask them to consider factors for and against a 70 cent override tax for the Carmel Unified School District. This issue will be decided at the polls on March 29.

In both the city and school board campaigns, voters will be bombarded with arguments, some extremely emotional.

Much as we love our town and our youngsters, what must be considered is facts. They build the only foundation on which intelligent decisions affecting the future of our town and our schools can be made.

Facts that city council candidates advance, also the board of education, will have to be evaluated realistically, painstakingly tallied, to provide the final answers at the polls.

The coming weeks are going to be crucial to the development of Carmel and the educational system of this area. What truly is at issue in both elections is whether we will settle for something a little better than mediocrity, or choose excellence. M.L.

Two Firemen Suspended For Hanging Effigy

Two paid engineers of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department were suspended from duty yesterday afternoon pending a final decision by the city council on whether or not disciplinary action shall be taken in respect to the hanging of an effigy in the fire house on Saturday.

The council decided that in the event no disciplinary action is taken over the effigy Lee McGuckin and Charles Grimshaw will have full pay for the period of suspension. If, however, disciplinary action is taken, the two men's pay will be forfeited.

This council decision came during an executive session called by Mayor Herbert Blanks to consider recommendations from Fire Chief J. Robert Baker on what disciplinary action should be taken over the effigy which could be seen from the street. Suspended from rafters inside the fire house, it was constructed from a pair of overalls stitched with the name "Paul." When he came on duty Saturday morning, a third paid engineer, Paul Artellan, was confronted with the effigy which was topped by a fireman's hat.

Following an executive council session Saturday to consider the effigy hanging, the council issued a directive to Chief Baker. It said he should "take, or recommend to the city council, immediate and stern disciplinary action with regard to the person or persons responsible for the hanging in effigy of a Carmel city fireman."

The directive further stated that "the disciplinary action be adequate to insure against repetition of acts which are so detrimental to the Carmel Fire Department and to the City of Carmel."

Monday morning, McGuckin and Grimshaw, the two firemen whom Artellan had relieved when he came on duty at 8 a.m. on Saturday, called a press conference at the fire house and presented an apology. Fire Chief Baker commented that they had a right to call the conference. He was not present when a typed statement was issued to newspaper, radio and television reporters. In the room, however, was Mark Starr, an attorney, who stated he was not representing McGuckin and Grimshaw.

The statement said:

Arts Commission Proposes History Museum At Sunset

Two hundred persons attended the opening of the Young People's Art Museum in Sunset Center last week, Chairman Barbara Norberg reported to other art commissioners yesterday afternoon. She also announced that the museum will be open to the public tomorrow afternoon from 3:30-5:30 o'clock and on Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoons next week during the same hours, also on Wednesday from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

On display is the work of Carmel High School students. This show will be succeeded by an exhibition of children's art from Mississippi. According to Mrs. Norberg, plans are being made also to show art films and give lectures on art in the museum.

She proposed to Mrs. Marjorie Wurzmahn, Mrs. Madeleine Powers Leoni and Mrs. Barbara Horder West, the other three commissioners present, that a museum featuring the history of Carmel be added to the art museum by cutting a door from Room 11 to Room 10 at the center. This proposal will be submitted to the Sunset Commission.

Mrs. Norberg also reported that several persons already had responded to the arts commission appeal for membership to Friends of Art in Carmel, an auxiliary organization to the arts commissions. The membership fee is $1. Funds so derived will be used to finance the city's 50th birthday celebration in October. The appeal also seeks help in the work of producing the celebration and lists six categories for volunteer work.

Another report from Mrs. Norberg was that Kerman Alderson, commander of the Carmel American Legion Post, thought it would be "terrific" to hang a bell in the World War I memorial arch at (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Boys And Girls To Test Skills At Bicycle Rodeo On Saturday

Anyone who can ride a bicycle may enter the Carmel Annual Bicycle Rodeo which will be held on Saturday starting at 9 a.m. on the north playfield of Sunset Center.

The event, developed to teach children how to ride a bicycle safely and learn traffic laws, is sponsored by the Carmel Police Department and the Carmel Unified School District recreation department, also the Carmel Kiwanis Club which donates prizes to winners of skill tests.

The police department will issue 1966 bike licenses, cost 25 cents, to all entrants who pass the safety test. Issued, too, will be a "driver's license" card.

A mechanic will be present to check all bicycles. If any bike is not mechanically safe, a notice will be sent home to parents. This sheet will list mechanical defects which may be remedied.

The skill tests will emphasize safety and include balance, stopping, starting, signalling and turning. There will be a slow race and an obstacle course set up for maneuvering.

Although the rodeo is planned for children, adults may enter events if they feel inclined to face the stiff competition provided by the boys and girls. However, no prizes will be given to the grownups.

S.F.B. Morse Named Citizen Of The Year

The Peninsula's outstanding citizen of 1965 was named Monday night at the annual dinner of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. Over 300 persons applauded the choice of Samuel F.B. Morse, chairman of the board of Del Monte Properties Company.

He also told those at the dinner that Mr. Morse will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University of California this Spring. This degree, and the plaque given on Monday, add to the list of honors accorded Samuel F. B. Morse during the past year. He has been honored by the California Senate and the Sierra Club for his contributions to conservation. Recently Fortune magazine named him as one of the 19 "grand old men of American business."

President of the chamber of commerce this year is James Rowe, Carmel merchant. A Carmel resident, Jack Westland, who is a director of the organization, was dinner chairman.

School Board Has Study Session On Override Election

The board of education of the Carmel Unified School District met Tuesday to hold a study session on the override tax election scheduled for March 29, when voters will be asked to approve an additional 70 cents in the school tax rate.

Discussed were such matters as the necessity of deciding priorities, presenting specific recommendations on the use of funds, and the relation of the board's policies to the present school program and the district's future needs.

In reviewing attempts to balance the budget, with a deficit of $130,000 in maintaining the present program, Superintendent Medill Bair listed areas where cuts, though undesirable, had been considered. Even by deleting the items from the budget, he added, perhaps impairing the program by doing so, the district would still fall $20,000 short of striking a balance.

The results of the board's studies, together with pertinent facts and figures, will be presented to the citizens' committee on finance.

tion, could well serve civic, cultural and community activities, and that he would like to see it remain substantially as is, with improvements.

Advice from the former city attorney, John Morse, Admiral Fisher pointed out, has indicated that moving city offices to Sunset Center would be illegal. "We could, however, have another bond issue for a nominal sum and declare what we wanted put there," he said. Mr. Blanks, enlarging on the question, stated that Sunset was not envisioned as a site for a municipal center and it was not until the passage of the bond election that the matter had arisen. The city's official position, he replied to a question from E. Jamieson, is that the master plan to include a permanent city administration area at Fourth and Junipero streets remains unchanged. The council's decision, in June of last year, to move the city hall to Sunset was rescinded, to be held in abeyance for one year, at the end of which it will be reconsidered.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg disagreed. He said the bond issue was for a municipal and community cultural center. "There is nothing which prohibits us from putting the city hall there," Mr. Norberg stated. Further, he added, "There is not a word about a non-profit corporation. There is no requirement upon us as a council or you, as citizens, to give away Sunset Center to anyone."

Carvel Baldwin, chairman of the Klenke Committee, and Miss Ethelinda James questioned the plans, presumably of Arts, Inc., to construct an auditorium seating 1,200-1,500 people, Mr. Baldwin maintaining that the percentage of seats to the population here is out of proportion. Miss James' objection, in addition, was the seeming aim of turning Carmel into a convention center.

Pertaining to auditorium size, Mrs. Eleanor Melvin indicated that the need for one seating over 1,200 people was established by answers to questionnaires sent to cultural groups. Performances are already over-sold, she said, making it impossible for musical organizations to increase income from door receipts.

Sunset Commission Chairman Peter Dyer explained that while the population increase may not warrant a bigger auditorium, increasing interest in the performing arts creates a greater demand for facilities. He emphasized, however, that no decisions have been taken at this time by the commission except that Sunset is to be a cultural-community center. "We are upgrading the auditorium and more will be done," Mr. Dyer reported, at the same time inviting all citizens to meetings of the commission.

The Sunset Commission was commended by Mr. Gulley for its efforts in a thankless task. Admiral Fisher, also a commission member, mentioned that it has been difficult to get anything tangible and specific upon which to act from any group, but that the community might rest assured the members are not acting in haste.

Mayor Blanks, in his address, urged citizens to participate in government, stating that one of the greatest causes of dissatisfaction is ignorance. "Know, participate and teach future generations to know and participate," was his advice.

In his introductory remarks, Admiral Fisher specified recent developments, good and bad, in numerous areas affecting every individual, asking each person to search his conscience to determine what he had thought, done, or not done, about each issue.

Roundabout Trip

Mr. and Mrs. John Geisen have returned from a trip to New York, where they were greatly intrigued by the bitter complaints of the taxi drivers who wasted so much gasoline and so many fares during the strike, while motors idled in the traffic congested streets.

From Manhattan, the Geisens flew to Palm Beach to warm up and relax. During their stay in the Florida resort town they were guests at one of the old Commodore Vanderbilt mansions.

En route home, they stopped in Santa Barbara to visit friends and meet Mrs. Geisen's son, Dan Robinson, who was on holiday from Robert Louis Stevenson School. Dan, unfortunately, had to have several stitches taken on his face after he was struck by a surfboard while pursuing his favorite sport. His mother says Dan was completely undaunted and plunged right back into the waves to continue surfing.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Can Deity be known through the material senses? Can the material senses, which receive no direct evidence of Spirit, give correct testimony as to spiritual life, truth, and love?" This thought-provoking question is part of the Lesson-Sermon on "Spirit" to be read at all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The question is taken from the denomination's textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

Bible passages will include Jesus' declaration: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing" (John 6).

The service on "Spirit" is one of a series through which Christian Scientists seek a deeper understanding of the nature of God through the study of certain terms. Others to come include services on "Soul" and "Mind."

Studying the latest information pertaining to the 1966 fund drive of the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross which begins next month are co-chairmen who will work under the leadership of Carvel Baldwin, residential area chairman. Mrs. Malcolm J. Setzer and Mrs. Stanley Turner of Carmel were among the 212 delegates from Peninsula District Business and Professional Women's Clubs attending the winter conference held in Palo Alto last weekend. Leadership in the community, and legislation affecting rights and advancement for women, were topics widely discussed during the two day meeting.

Members of the Carmel Business and Professional Women's Club will assist the other local clubs in making plans to hostess the district spring conference at the Mark Thomas Inn April 23-24.

The Carmel club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Red Cross building at 7:30 p.m. February 10.

Unidentified Body Found On Beach

Still unidentified this morning was the body of a man found on Carmel beach near the foot of Martin Way at about 8:30 a.m. yesterday morning by Geoff C. Williams of Carmel Valley. He immediately phoned Carmel police who notified the sheriff's office.

Monterey County Coroner Christopher Hill Jr. said the corpse appeared to have been in the ocean from three to five days, possibly longer. The dead man was described as 71 inches tall, weighing 155-160 pounds, with brown eyes. Nearly bald, his remaining hair was greying brown. He was clothed in a beige sleeveless cardigan, vest-type sweater over a green sport shirt with black and white lines, and black slacks and belt. He wore size 10½ black shoes, brown socks; a gold signet ring was on his right little finger.

Coroner Hill requests anyone who may be able to provide information about the victim's identity to phone the coroner's or sheriff's office. The body was taken to Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel.

Tea For Bride-Elect

Mrs. Allman J. Cook invited a number of friends to tea at her Pebble Beach home yesterday to meet her future daughter-in-law, Linda Sue Hoffland, and Linda's mother, Mrs. Corwin C. Hoffland of West Covina. Mrs. James Moore of Carmel assisted Mrs. Cook, presiding at the tea table.

Linda and Michael Cook, whose engagement was announced last October, have set June 18 as the date of their wedding, which will take place in Southern California. Mike's marriage will be almost simultaneous with his commissioning as an officer in the U.S. Navy. His fiancée, who graduated in June from U.C., where she was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, is doing graduate work at the university.

Francesca reports that her brother, Sam Farr, who is now serving in the Peace Corps in Medellin, Colombia, will be returning home sometime after February 25. He is presently applying for acceptance to several law schools and wishes to begin his schooling in September. Until then he plans to study at the University in Mexico City.

Doctors Were Pleased

Through a chance meeting, at least one group of physicians attending the convention of the Western Association of Physicians here last week took home with them pleasant memories of Carmel's spontaneous hospitality. The doctors, all studying and practicing in different fields of medicine at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, were invited for cocktails at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Boekenooogen on Thursday.

The Boekenooogens' guests, most from foreign lands, were Dr. Trevor Hughes of England, Dr. George J. Duffy of Ireland, Dr. Blair Ritchie of Australia, Dr. Mary Wong of San Francisco, Dr. Angus Rae of England, Dr. Rita Bogoroch of Canada, Dr. James Hopper of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd of Carmel.

Since it was the first visit here for most of the doctors, they particularly enjoyed seeing a typical "old" Carmel house, the Boekenooogens' lovely remodeled residence on San Antonio Street.

GRANGE INSTALLATION

Master of the Big Sur Grange for 1966, Theodore (Ted) Bergquist, and other officers were installed in colorful and impressive ceremonies on January 21 at the Big Sur Grange Hall. Over 150 people witnessed the ceremonies which were performed by an installation team headed by Chester Deaver, State Grange Overseer.

For the occasion, the hall was beautifully bedecked with boughs of silver tree made available by Mrs. Hans Ewoldsen, the owner of these trees with silver colored foliage.

Following the installation, there was an entertainment—a repeat performance of the successful and original "Snow Scene" ballet which was presented at the recent Community Christmas party in Big Sur. The "putting on of the show" was the last official act of Mr. Bergquist as lecturer (program director), a position which he has held in the Grange for the past three years.

The highlight of the late evening social hour that followed the installation and program was a buffet supper of an extraordinary array of decorative and delicious foods—each made and donated by women of the community who are noted for their fine cooking.

The Big Sur Grange Hall, in its unique setting beside the river and nestled beneath towering trees, has long been the center of community activities and the many Grange-sponsored programs have brought happiness and enlightenment to countless people. Among these events are the annual pot luck revue, an exciting entertainment presented each spring (rehearsals began last Sunday for the 1966 revue scheduled for late March), the annual Community Christmas Party which is jointly sponsored by the Grange and the Parents Club and the Captain Cooper School.

Through the generosity and interest of the members of the Grange, the hall is made available for meetings of community interest throughout the year. The Little Lyric Theater of Big Sur (a non-profit theater established two years ago) uses the hall for its practice and performance. The South Coasters, a square dance group meets at the hall each week, and on weekends there is "movie night."

ROBERTA AND WAYNE WED

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dengate of Big Sur were in San Luis Obispo on January 15 for the happy occasion of the wedding of their son, Wayne, to the former Roberta Thompson. In describing the event, Mrs. Dengate says, "It was a beautiful day and a beautiful ceremony, performed at high noon in the old Mission at San Luis Obispo."

Wayne is an Airman 2nd Class stationed at Cannon Air Force Base near Clovis, New Mexico. Prior to his enlistment two years ago, he was a student at Monterey Peninsula College for one year and was enrolled at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo at the time he entered the Air Force. Roberta was also a student at Cal Poly. Both Wayne and Roberta hope to complete their education at the University of New Mexico, in Clovis, where they will be stationed.

Roberta spent last summer with the Ralph Dengates in Big Sur and was employed during that time at Nepenthe. Five summers ago, Roberta, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson of San Luis Obispo, served as a Girl Scout counselor at the camp near her home town. While there she met Wayne who worked that summer, as a maintenance man, at the camp.

The Ralph Dengates have two other sons, William, a member of the U.S. Strategic Air Command in Glasgow, Montana, who served as best man at his brother's wedding, and Willard who is associated with the General Fire Proofing Company in San Luis Obispo.

Ralph Dengate is superintendent of the maintenance station, Division of Highways, in Big Sur.

TO RECEIVE MEDAL

Morley Baer, a former Carmelite now a resident of Berkeley who spends as much of his time as his profession will permit at his new Garrapata home on the Sur Coast, has been selected to receive the annual Architectural Photography Medal at the 1966 Convention of The American Institute of Architects which will be held in Denver in June.

A prominent West Coast photographer, Mr. Baer specializes in photographs of West Coast architecture and the historic buildings of San Francisco. He is former chairman of the photography department of the San Francisco Art Institute and he now teaches his favorite subject part-time. He has had his architectural photographs published in House Beautiful, House and Garden and Progressive Architecture and Architectural Record magazines. His photographs of the natural scene are included in the Sierra Club book "Not Man Apart," an extraordinary collection of photographs of the Sur Coast. Mr. Baer holds degrees from the University of Michigan, is widely traveled and has had his work featured in many exhibitions.

International Films On MPC Spring List

Two free Friday evening showings each of six international films have been scheduled by the Monterey Peninsula College Theater Arts Group for the Spring semester.

The schedule includes "The Best Years of Our Lives" (U.S.A., 1946), starring Frederic March and Dana Andrews, February 11; "Resurrection" (Russian, 1962), from Tolstoy's novel, February 25; "Aren't We Wonderful?" (Germany, 1958), a film exposing the fortunes and misfortunes of the German people from the days of the Kaiser through the Hitler era to the postwar "economic miracle," March 11; "Nights of Cabiria" (Italy, 1956), another masterpiece from the creator and star of "La Strada," March 25;

"Aliki, My Love" (Greece, 1962), a light comedy made on the Greek Island of Los, April 29; and "Beauty and the Devil" (France, 1949), a new and scintillating treatment of the Faust legend, May 20.

Each film, accompanied by a selected short film, will be shown in the MPC Music Hall twice: at 7 and 9 p.m. Because the hall is limited in capacity to 240 seats, free tickets will be issued on a reserved seat basis. These may be secured by mailing a request to the MPC Evening Division, one week prior to each showing, and enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope, or by picking them up at the college administration building switchboard. Requests must be limited to two tickets.

Community Theatre Announces Revised Policy On Tickets

A change in membership privileges has been announced by the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula, now offering season tickets to its plays at the Circle Theatre. Regular membership in the organization now entitles the holder to admission on Saturday evenings as well as on Fridays and Sundays.

Sponsor and patron members, formerly the only ones whose season tickets were valid on Saturdays, will now have the added privilege of reserving specific seats at the theatre until curtain time. The Circle has previously had a no-reserved-seats policy since its inception in 1953.

All members of the Community Theatre receive invitations to opening night parties, children's plays, workshops and special events, as well as a regular newsletter on theatre activities. Season tickets are good for one year from the date they are issued.

Regular membership in the organization is priced at $14, with a special educational rate of $10 for students and teachers. Sponsors' and patrons' donations, at $25 and $100 respectively, are tax-deductible above the $14 admission fee.

The changes, effective immediately, apply to those who have purchased memberships during the past year as well as to all newcomers. Application forms and further information may be obtained by writing to Community Theatre, Box A L, Carmel, or by telephoning 624-2669.

Letter To Editor

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

Referring to your article on the first page of your issue of January 27 on the important subject of the Carmel school tax rates, I wish to say that I have not had much educashun, so am not too good at figgers, and that you have me confused as to how we presently reach the total rate of $2.53 per $100 property evaluation. I have repeatedly added up your breakdown and always come out with a figger of $2.25255, but I am probably wrong.

It would help me quite a little, perhaps, if you would give us that breakdown again and stick with either dollars, or cents, in your analysis. Perhaps a detailed explanation of the proposed 70 cent increase would also be interesting.

Your very truly,
Richard C. Goodspeed

Editor's Note: I am not too good at figures either. A figure was omitted from the printed breakdown of the $2.53 school tax rate. It was .025, or 2½ cents for the classified employees retirement fund. Adding this sum to the figures printed last week, the total amounts to $2.53—and I've added and added.

This is the revised breakdown:

CAREY McWILLIAMS OPENS MPC LECTURE SERIES

Carey McWilliams will open Monterey Peninsula College's spring evening lecture series tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Armory on campus.

Speaking under the all-over theme of "The Significance of the Far Right," the distinguished author-editor of The Nation, oldest weekly journal of opinion in the country, has chosen "A Liberal's Plea for Conservatism" as his topic.

Mr. McWilliams has devoted many years to the study of controversial social issues.

Other speakers in MPC's "Far Right" series are Niven Busch, author of "The Gentleman from California," March 4; Reed Benson, Washington representative for The John Birch Society, April 15; and a fourth speaker as yet to be announced.

Carmel Foundation Buys Motel As Third Residence For Elderly

The Carmel Foundation has acquired its third residence for older men and women of this community. Announced this week was the purchase of the Rider Apartments at Fifth and Lincoln by Mrs. Fred L. Glascock, foundation president.

The new property will provide 11 residential apartments plus living quarters for a manager and will be named after the late Miss Orre Haseltine, a former member of the board of directors of Carmel Foundation.

Possession of the new complex, to house persons aged 65 or older with limited fixed incomes, took place on Tuesday. Considerable remodeling of the premises will be done before an open house is held on February 16, the date of the annual meeting of Carmel Foundation.

The new accommodations will increase the number of persons who have found suitable housing under the auspices of Carmel Foundation. Already older persons live at Niles House at the corner of Lincoln and Eighth and in Trevett Court at Dolores and Fifth.

Funds to purchase the three properties accrued from bequests to the non-profit foundation, or by special donations.

The apartments at the new facility will rent for $65 and $75 a month. Included in the rental will be the cost of utilities and twice monthly cleaning. Free laundry facilities will be provided, too.

Miss Haseltine, after whom the new court will be named, contributed generously to the support of the "adventure in neighborliness" policy of the foundation which was established to provide for the welfare and well-being of elderly persons living in and about Carmel. In addition to housing, the foundation maintains Town House, a friendly recreational center on Lincoln Street for persons 50 years old, or older.

Operation of Town House and the housing facilities is provided by tax-exempt contributions. During her lifetime, Miss Haseltine set up a pilot trust fund as a contribution to the operational expenses of the foundation. In honor of her dedicated work as a director, also her recognition of the need for, and interest in the foundation's varied program for elderly persons, the new apartment facility will be named for her.

A generous bequest from Miss Elizabeth Niles, former head librarian at Harrison Memorial Library, provided for the purchase of Niles House. Trevett Court is named after the late Mrs. Sidney Trevett, one of the founders of Carmel Foundation and for many years its honorary president.

Senator Farr New Member Of State Arts Commission

The Senate Rules Committee announced Tuesday the appointment of Senator Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) to the California Fine Arts Commission.

In acknowledging his appointment, Senator Farr stated: "I appreciate very much this opportunity to serve on the California Fine Arts Commission, especially as this commission is of particular interest and can be of great importance to the Central Coast Area in assisting local communities in the development of their own art centers and cultural and educational programs."

The commission, prior to Senator Farr's appointment, had agreed to assist Arts, Inc. with a feasibility study to determine whether or not Carmel's Sunset Center is the most desirable location for the non-profit group's planned cultural center for the Peninsula.

WOMAN'S CLUB SPEAKER

Abdul Ghafur Sheikh, above, will present "Into Forbidden Mecca," an illustrated record of a journey into the Holy City of Islam at the general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday at 2 p.m.

Abdul Sheikh is the son of a prominent East African philanthropist, a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. At the recommendation of His Highness, the late Aga Khan, Mr. Sheikh was made deputy director of the Islamic Congress. The Government of Pakistan invited him to attend the International Islamic Colloquium and he was given the first award by the Asian Press Association for "best contribution toward world understanding," as well as similar honors from America.

Mr. Sheikh made the pilgrimage to the Holy City of Islam and recorded, with camera hidden beneath his flowing robes, film sights forbidden to the eyes of non-Moslems, in the interest of better world understanding. These photographs and a story were featured in an unprecedented article of some 60 pages in National Geographic magazine, and these same photographs were used by Life for their series on "Great Religions."

Co-chairmen for the hospitality committee will be Miss Ianthe

Mary Garrity

Private services for Mary Garrity, who died Saturday in a Pacific Grove nursing home after a lengthy illness, were held Sunday at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel in Monterey.

Miss Garrity, who made her home with Mrs. Hammond D. Birks, was a Carmel resident for the past 20 years. She was a native of Chicago, Illinois, where she had been a teacher in the city's public schools until her retirement.

She leaves two brothers, Joseph Garrity of Chicago and William Garrity of Long Beach.

Interment took place in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

our PG&E Service Center

Inside this handsome, custom-designed building, trucks are greased, supplies are stored and construction crews gather each day to install and maintain PG&E Reddy Service... one of many efficient PG&E Service Centers.

The new Monterey Service Center was styled to blend with its natural surroundings. Almost half its total area is devoted to landscaping. Generous use has been made of ornamental masonry and natural woods. At night, floodlights illuminate the trees and shrubs.

The Monterey Service Center isn't the only PG&E building that's a pleasure to look at these days. New PG&E facilities all over Northern and Central California have a clean, contemporary look.

Premiere Of Local Composer's Work For Tuesday Symphony

Saluting February as "American Music Month," Conductor John Gosling of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will open Tuesday evening's concert in Sunset Center auditorium with the premiere presentation of David Mulder's "Orchestral Design."

Mr. Mulder, for the past three years an instructor of music in the Salinas public school system, was awarded his B.A. degree in music at the University of the Pacific. He plans to return to the university for his doctorate as a musicologist and composer.

Soloist of the evening, the noted cellist Rolf Storseth, will be heard in Haydn's "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in D Major, Op. 101."

Moussorgsky's colorful "Pictures at an Exhibition" will complete the program.

An added note of festivity during the symphony's third concert of the season will be an informal reception for members of the audience at intermission.

Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, second vice president of the symphony association board of directors, will serve as chairman. Assisting her as hostesses will be Mrs. James Moore, vice president of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the symphony guild, and Mrs. Elsbeth Nelson, guild member. Marlinde von Ruhs has created murals to decorate the foyer for the occasion.

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

To the Chinese the horse is a symbol of prosperity, patience and strength. Now that the "Old China Hands," a group of pre-World War II friends, have just celebrated their tenth annual get-together here in Carmel, we'll do justice to these pro chopstick wielders.

A former U.S. commercial attache in China, A. Bland Calder, and Mrs. Calder entertained the group of 60 at a cocktail-buffet. Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Erbe gave a cocktail party the next night. Lewis Clark, former U.S. Minister to China, had a marvelous open house to which not only the "in group" were asked, but also Crosby participants.

To get back to the horse. In Old China this is the year 4664 which is the Year of the Horse. Lucky are we who were stationed in China B.C. (Before Communists) and brought back those exquisite "Eight Lucky Imperial Horses" done in porcelain, in bright yellow or aquamarine. What a charming centerpiece on a bare polished teakwood table! These miniature horses are indeed dear to us now. None are imported today.

Of the many volumes extolling the virtues of imperial Chinese cuisine, the most recent is "Court Dishes of China." All the recipes in this brand new book are authentic, representative examples of the Ch'ing Dynasty, transcribed for modern usage. Let's take fried shrimp, something we all thought we knew about.

FRIED SHRIMP (Ch'ing Ch'ao Hsia Jen) (Serves 2)

6 tbsps. sesame oil; 1 tbsp. ginger root, chopped; 2 tbsps. green onion, chopped; 1 lb. fresh shrimp, 2 in. long, shelled, deveined, washed and dredged in cornstarch; 5 tbsps. dry white wine; 1 tsp. salt.

Bring the sesame oil (or vegetable oil in which sesame seeds have been crushed) to a boil in an iron pan over high heat. Put in ginger and onion and stir. Replace pan over fire, add shrimp, wine and salt. Fry, stirring briskly for a few minutes. Serve hot. These make excellent "small chow" as the Americans called hors d'oeuvres in their own special compound.

Ch'ing Ch'ao Ssia Jen is a noted dish of the lower Yangtze. It was introduced to the court during Emperor Yung-cheng's reign (1723-1735) and was highly appreciated by the emperors who followed. And the Americans who followed still later!

WALNUTS AND CHICKEN CUBES (He-You Chi Ting) (Serves 2)

4 tbsps. sesame oil; 6 walnuts, blanched and quartered; 2/3 lb. chicken meat in 1/2 inch cubes; 1 tbsp. cornstarch; 1/2 tsp. green onion, chopped; 1 tsp. ginger root, chopped; 2 tbsps. soy; 1 tbsp. dry white wine; 1 tsp. sugar; 1/2 tsp. salt.

Bring sesame oil to a boil in pan; fry walnut meats for 1 minute and remove. Put chicken, dusted with cornstarch, in same pan and fry over high heat for 2 minutes or more, stirring constantly. Add onion and ginger. Stir and add other ingredients. Fry, stirring briskly, for another minute. Serve hot. The combination of chicken and walnuts is most delicious. Hot white flaky rice in individual porcelain bowls is the accepted accompaniment.

Chen Tung Kuan, the famous Szechow cook, introduced the above dish to the imperial court during the reign of Emperor Ch'ien-lung.

SWEET AND SOUR CUCUMBERS (T'ang Ts'u Huang Kua)

3 tbsps. sesame oil; 10 peppercorns; 3 tbsps. soy; 1 tbsp. sugar; 3 tbsps. vinegar; 1/2 cup green onion, julienned; 1 cup cucumbers, (unpared, if skin is tender), cut in 1 1/2 x 1/2 x 1/2 inch pieces.

Bring the sesame oil to a boil in pan, add peppercorns and fry. Add soy, sugar, vinegar and onion. Stir well and simmer. Add cucumbers. Fry uncovered over high heat until liquid turns into syrup and yet the cucumbers remain fresh in color. Serve hot as a vegetable; enough for two.

According to Chinese custom, soup is served after the entree but before dessert. Here is a light intriguing-to-jaded-appetites. Chinese digestive soup.

PEACH SOUP (T'ao Keng) (Serves 2)

3 tbsps. sugar; 2 tbsps. cornstarch; 1 cup water; 1 tbsp. lard (Crisco); 1/2 lb. peaches, pared, seeded, and mashed; 1 tsp. rose essence (this is a Chinese form of wine. Vanilla may be used).

In a bowl combine sugar, cornstarch and water. Bring lard to a boil in pan. Remove pan from fire, add contents of bowl. Mix well. Replace over fire, add mashed peaches, stir constantly until contents come to a boil. Add rose essence or vanilla. Serve hot or cold depending upon the mood or elements.

ALMOND TEA (Hsing Jen Cha) (Serves 8-10)

1 cup rice, washed; 1/2 lb. almonds, blanched; 6 cups water; 5 tbsps. sugar.

Place rice and almonds in pot; add water and soak 8 hours. Drain. Grind rice and almonds in grinder. Add enough water gradually to maintain a liquidy paste-like consistency. Boil rice and almond liquid in pot, stirring constantly, for 30 min. A double boiler is recommended to prevent scorching. Add sugar. Mix well, and bring to a boil. Serve hot during meal.

Speaking of authentic pre-Communist Chinese meals, dinner began with at least four cold dishes served separately. Four hot or fried dishes were then served, and four steamed or braised dishes followed along with the rice. As we have said, soup follows these entrees and then comes dessert. Tea is always on hand.

So, speaking of Old China Hands and the new Chinese Year of the Horse, let's be grateful for the lovely book "Court Dishes of China" by Su Chung, published by Charles E. Tuttle in Tokyo, Japan. The recipes given in today's Party Plans are from this exquisitely illustrated book containing color photographs of rare old Chinese ceramics.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

New reference books purchased from federal funds are beginning to arrive at the library. This grant for books will enlarge our reference department to the place where it will entirely outgrow the small space which has been allotted to it.

For this reason we are planning to move the reference department to the basement, housing it in the room which formerly was occupied by the processing department. If this is done, it will mean that the shelving of back issues of periodicals will also have to move out. Which in turn means only one thing, namely that persons using back issues of magazines in some cases will have to wait 24 hours for the magazines. Thus we admonish patrons to think ahead 24 hours. If you are going to need a certain periodical one day, ask for it the day before. It seems a simple thing. However, there will be library personnel in the room where the magazines are stored. We will telephone from the circulation desk here to learn if the magazines are available. What more can anyone ask?

It was fifteen years ago that Arthur Mizener wrote THE FAR SIDE OF PARADISE, a biography of Scott Fitzgerald. Recently he had published the second edition of the work, using the same title of course, and including in the book much material which has appeared since the first one was published. Once again this is Fitzgerald, both the legend and the man. In the back of the book there is a chronological list of all Fitzgerald's works, both books and published magazine articles.

The man who thought of the idea for a television program called I've Got a Secret, is Allan Sherman of Los Angeles. His autobiography was recently published under the title A GIFT OF LAUGHTER. Allan Sherman is famous for his parodies of familiar songs. He has made many records, his first album being entitled MY SON, THE FOLK SINGER. To Allan Sherman, everything is funny, even himself. A GIFT OF LAUGHTER is sad-mood therapy.

Leon Poliakov plans to write a series of four books on the problem of anti-semitism. The first is now published, under the title THE HISTORY OF ANTI-SEMITISM: FROM THE TIME OF CHRIST TO THE COURT JEWS. This book was written under the auspices of the Sorbonne and translated by Richard Howard. Explanatory notes are here in great number and the history of the Jewish people is naturally included.

SAMPLERS is the title of a book by Averil Colby. A sampler is defined as "a cloth on which a collection of miscellaneous stitches and patterns is worked in embroidery for use as a reference in future work." There are many illustrations of old samplers, and of acceptable designs for new ones.

Monica Stirling has done a biography of Hans Christian Andersen and called her book THE WILD SWAN. This is a book written with deep sympathy and understanding and illustrated with a group of most interesting photographs of Andersen, his family, and his friends. A charming book for every reader's enjoyment.

And now, quickly before we run out of space, let us speak of CLASSICAL SONGS FOR CHILDREN. This is a lovely book with words and music of many old songs which children have known and sung for generations. Introduce this book to your youngsters before they get caught up in lugubrious folk songs with guitar.

In Colombia, Sylvia Broadbent Explores Origin Of Indian Tribe

In Colombia there is a legend about the origin of Bogota, where South American liberator Simon Bolivar reigned as President of Colombia and where he resigned, in 1830, as Supreme Commander of the country once known as New Granada. The story goes that the Spaniards, who landed in 1537, made camp there to await the stop of the rains—the rains being endless, Bogota was born. Potential tourists should note that this is an exaggeration, says Dr. Sylvia Broadbent of Carmel; there is not a continual downpour and, besides, it is clear that the Spanish could not have "landed" in Bogota at an elevation of 8,500 feet.

Sylvia Broadbent, whose wry humor and varied enthusiasms belie the popular concept of the "lady scientist," is convinced that her excavation near Bogota has unearthed the Chibcha Indian settlement of the original capital of Colombia. Findings now indicate that it is at least 500 years old. Carbon 14 tests, when possible, may predate this. After being in Carmel for a long holiday with her family, Dr. Broadbent has just returned to South America to analyze and classify the findings of her "diggings" and to resume teaching anthropology and linguistics at the Universidad de los Andes where she has been a staff member since mid-1964.

According to the anthropologist, findings at the excavation site are of no particular value in the way of art or beauty but do, however, offer clues as to when and how the early Chibchas lived. As far as is known, Dr. Broadbent is the only person doing extensive research on these people, whose native tongue became extinct sometime in the latter part of the 17th Century and has been replaced by Spanish. Living in an area roughly 125 by 75 miles, there is no record of their origin, leaving Sylvia Broadbent a clear field for the project known as "Cultural Continuity in Chibcha Territory." "This," she admitted with a slightly conspiratorial smile, "is a magnificent grab-bag which permits me to do anything I want." What she wants, it would appear, is more hard work and difficult challenge.

Relative to her studies, Dr. Broadbent has been delving into the archives of the Universidad de los Andes, where she has found, and hopes to find more, references in Hispanic history of the Chibchas. No easy task this, when one considers that the documents are handwritten in an ancient and hard-to-decipher script, and that the Spanish language has undergone quite a change, as have others, over a period of several centuries.

Does she intend to do further research, make other excavations? She certainly hopes to, and she has a vast field in which to wield her shovel. One exciting thing she mentioned were monoliths near St. Augustin, in the Department of Huila, which date back to the time of Christ, or perhaps 500 A.D. Nothing is known of their origin and, oddly, no one seems to be particularly curious about them. The visit there, near the headwaters of the Rio Magdalena, was actually in the nature of a holiday and presented, she said, some of the most magnificent scenery she had ever encountered. Most impressive was the sight of four waterfalls at once, each one-third the size of Yosemite Falls, thundering down the river gorge through a tropical forest.

That this young anthropologistlinguist does not live in a dusty, lost world is evidenced by her observations on present-day Colombia, as well as her awareness of her own country. As a woman living among the people, she believes that Colombia is relatively well-off, that the standard of living is rising; at least, she says, there are no food shortages in Colombia, which she noted in other nearby countries. The people are apt, as many travelers have noticed, to imitate the worst taste of their European or American counterparts, neglecting their native handicrafts and arts—a natural but deplorable state of affairs. The importance of bandits, rapidly being eliminated but still a menace in some areas, and of Communists and their influence is greatly exaggerated, she believes, by U.S. press representatives.

A member of the class of 1948 at Carmel High School, Sylvia Broadbent graduated with highest honors from the University of California at Berkeley, carrying a dual major in anthropology and pre-medicine. At U.C., where she was a Phi Beta Kappa and member of Sigma Xi, she later received her doctorate for graduate work specializing in Andean culture, linguistics and primitive medicine. Author of linguistic studies on the California Miwok Indians, her career also includes teaching anthropology at U.C., Northwestern University and Barnard College.

Born in London in 1932, Sylvia came to Carmel with her family as a teen-ager. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Solomon and the sister of Mrs. Arthur Strasburger of Carmel.

Heart Fund Benefit On Sunday Afternoon

The annual Heart Fund Cocktail Party, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Hotel Association, will be held at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club on February 6 from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Co-chairmen for the social event are Tom Oliver and John Paul Jones.

A donation of $7.50 will entitle the public to cocktails served at booths manned by owners or managers of various hotels, plus the chance to sample hors d'oeuvres prepared by professionals and talented amateurs of the Peninsula.

Those in attendance will also have an opportunity to win "parties in the round" entitling them to be the guests of several leading hotels for cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and dinner for six.

Tickets may be obtained at Lobos Lodge, headquarters for the party, or from any hotel manager on the Peninsula. Co-chairmen of the ticket committee are Mrs. Betty Carr and Bill Godwin.

Virginia (Mrs. Robert) Stanton, in charge of judges, has prevailed upon Rene Verdon, former White House chef, to help select the "best" among hors d'oeuvres entries, of which Al Fry is in charge. Entry blanks may be obtained from Mr. Fry, at the Pine Inn or the Mark Thomas Inn.

Assisting Mr. Verdon as judges of the hors d'oeuvres will be Peter Bultnick, managing director of the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, and the winner of last year's amateur hors d'oeuvres contest, Count Bertrand d'Avenas of Carmel.

Entries for the hors d'oeuvres will be presented by some 20 different hotels and clubs from the Monterey Peninsula, and over 50 amateurs from Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz counties. Several of the entries coming from Air France will be flown in from San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Marilinde von Ruhs and Barbara Tripp have again teamed up to provide unusual decorations. Carol McKee and J. Dustin Smith are responsible for the awards and the raffle is in charge of Jack Dougherty, assisted by Mrs. Kathleen Wood in ticket sales.

Bud Allen has arranged for Mike Marotta's orchestra to play during the party, the proceeds of which will benefit the Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

INCOME TAX COURSE OFFERED AT MPC

As a community service, Monterey Peninsula College will offer a special short course in income tax form preparation.

Starting February 10, the non-credit class, designed as an aid to the person who prepares his own return, will meet on eight consecutive Thursdays, 7 to 9 p.m., in the library lecture hall on campus. Enrollment will be limited to 50 and advance registration with the evening dean's office will be required. Thomas F. Saake, assistant chairman of MPC's business division, will instruct.

FREE THEATRE WORKSHOPS

A program of theatre production workshops is being offered to the public, free of charge, by the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula in the Circle Theatre.

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. Ben Lewis will hold a seminar on theatre lighting. Opening on February 9 will be a three-week series of classes in movement for actors conducted by Else Wickham.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning 624-2669.

In the Country Club? Nonsense!

Look What Our Fran Just Listed:

$31,000—SPINNING WHEEL CHARM

In upper Pebble Beach, a delightful and interesting little house sort of angled into its woodsy setting on a corner lot. "Charming" is the most accurate word we can think of for the pleasant feeling in the large living room (fireplace, of course) two pretty bedrooms and bath in one wing, and what the owner calls her "bonus room" and bath in another part of the house, used for hobbies and guests. Cute kitchen, too, and did you note the price?

$37,500—AN ELEGANT LITTLE HOUSE with all the amenities as well as the necessities, and easy cart distance from the Club. Beautiful carpeting throughout, except where the floors are beautiful vinyl patterns in kitchen and baths. Fireplace wall is used brick, floor to ceiling. The kitchen is a real honey and has double oven, built in stove, dishwasher, disposal and a Bar-B-Q. Natural, easy care landscaping. Immaculate, vacant, and you can move right in.

$37,500—FLEXIBILITY THE KEYNOTE in the floorplan, perfection the word for the details in a home that's at once comfortable and dignified. The living room and dining room have window walls to a beautifully developed patio area. Kitchen has natural cabinets. 3 bedrooms (one makes a great study), and there isn't a thing this house needs done to it, unless you'd like to add a shower to the half bath off the study. Easy to finance, too.

$35,000—INDOOR/OUTDOOR LIVING

A third of an acre landscaped to perfection (and deer-fenced to keep it that way). Striking fireplace wall in the living room features marble hearth, stone fireplace with heatilator, bookshelves, and a built-in mirror. Three bedrooms, one with patio entrance, and two baths. Hardwood floors, central heat, double garage, and taxes of only $389.

Two Carmel Firemen Suspended For Hanging Effigy

Carmel Fire Department, the fire service, and the citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea we present this statement of the FACTS regarding Saturday's "effigy hanging."

"What was presented to the general public via local communications media was a vastly inflated and distorted version of a private gag. Gags of this nature are frequent and part of our life as firemen and perpetuate our interest and maintain our high morale. In this particular case the gag was misconstrued; mainly due to unfavorable, adverse and unwarranted publicity which has been directed at the fire department and its membership for many months.

"An official apology to Paul Artellan and the membership of the fire department will be made by Chairman Lee McGuckin at the regular monthly meeting of the fire department on Thursday.

"To the citizens of Carmel we ask their continued support of the fire department in the knowledge that the Carmel Fire Department has and always will be ready to render aid in a time of emergency despite efforts from the outside to portray the department as a band of rebels. Our record speaks for itself."

The statement was signed by both Grimshaw and McGuckin, also Artellan.

Yesterday afternoon, during closed council deliberations, McGuckin and Grimshaw, in uniform, waited with Starr in city hall until they were called, separately, before the council. Starr, with the approval of the council, appeared with each man. He requested a continuance of the council deliberations until such time as he could present a case for each man for consideration. The continuance was granted and the council issued the following report.

"That effective 6:30 p.m. February 2, 1966, Lee B. McGuckin and Charles H. Grimshaw be suspended from their fire service duties until a final decision is reached by the city council and that in the event no disciplinary action is taken, there shall be no loss of pay for such suspension."

Present at the meeting, in addition to the five councilmen, were City Administrator Hugh Bayless, City Attorney William B. Burleigh and Fire Chief Baker.

At the press conference on Monday morning, McGuckin indicated that the Pine Cone was not implicated in the "adverse publicity" charges in the statement handed out.

RECEPTION FOR WAYFARER PASTOR

Members and friends in the community are invited to a reception to welcome the new pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, the Reverend Alexander C. Bryans, Mrs. Bryans and their children. The affair is to be held in the Garden Room of the church on Sunday from 3-5 p.m.

Mrs. Gordon N. Smith is chairman of a committee composed of Mrs. H. J. Danelz, Mrs. Gordon Gulley, Mrs. Evan M. Heid, Mrs. Yale Martz, Mrs. Kenneth Walker and Miss Mary Illich.

The Bryans family arrived this week from their former Denver pastorate at the University Park Methodist Church and established residence in the church manse. They have two sons, Marc and Glenn, and a daughter, Judy.

The Reverend Bryans will fill the pulpit of the Church of the Wayfarer for the first time on Sunday.

William Sefton Second Candidate For Council

Chitwood, Fred Hollenbeck, Dr. William Coughlin, James Burgess, Ted Fehring, Frank Putnam, Louis Conlan, Barney Laiolo and Robert Waldo Hicks.

William Sefton is an innkeeper (Coachman's Inn) with a lifetime background of business experience. He is active in civic affairs on the Peninsula level, is a member of High Twelve Club and currently very active with the Six Cities Fund.

Yesterday he said, "I am concerned about the terrible confusion on the council level regarding the Sunset Center project, the street lighting situation, the fire department problem, and the need to stop the constant erosion of our Carmel atmosphere. I want to dedicate my efforts to maintain and keep what we have for our Carmel citizenry by creating a coalition of citizen and business interests for a common cause — the protection of a most cherished heritage."

He further stated, "There must be a much closer relationship between the city council and the desires of our citizens. This can only be accomplished by understanding and a harmonious effort within the council to create a coalition for all—the citizen, the business man, and the city administration."

"The success of our community is shared by everyone. With full cooperation we will develop and operate Sunset Center as our own project and also settle our many other problems."

"We have a very capable city organization and a wealth of experience and know-how within our citizenry. Let's all work together

Public Invited To Bomb Shelter Turned Wine Cellar

A new house whose fallout and bomb proof underground shelter doubles as an attractive wine cellar was opened for a preview last week by its builder Merle Murphy, Carmel general building contractor. The two story, early American structure, located on the West side of Dolores street south of 13th, was designed by George Willox, A.I.A., of Carmel.

Throughout the building, Mr. Murphy has combined the best of materials and construction methods to produce an unusual dwelling with many unique features. Some of these are an advanced fire alarm system, a built-in fire hose, an AM-FM radio-intercom system; a high fire resistant safe embedded in concrete, heavy duty built-in vacuum system, and even a built-in Weatherscope weather station.

Every housewife's dream is the stove with self cleaning ovens in the kitchen, which is also completely equipped with top rated appliances and numerous built-in conveniences.

Particular care has been taken with the utilities system from both the point of comfort and lasting service. Painting, woodwork, brickwork and floors have received expert attention and generous storage space is provided throughout. The dining room, containing a deluxe used brick barbecue, is partially open to the kitchen with its built-in bar for easy access to either room.

The really unique feature, of course, is the bomb-shelter turned wine cellar, whose secret doors only the owner and contractor will be able to open. Lined with bottle racks and half-round wine casks, the large room is centered by a huge, hand carved table bearing the apt inscription from Omar Khayyam, "A Jug of Wine, A Loaf of Bread and Thou."

On Sunday, from 1-5 p.m., the public is invited to inspect the new house and to join Mr. and Mrs. Murphy in the wine cellar for a glass of wine.

Ocean and San Carlos designed by the late famed architect Charles Sumner Greene.

Other reports presented by Mrs.

and do a job that will be a credit to our community."

Those who signed Mr. Sefton's nomination papers were Charles McEwen, Barnet Segal, William Ober, Charles Marcolli, Carl Bosholm, Dorothy Chapman, Rose Crumrine, Barbara Norberg, Wallace Doolittle and William Jennings. His papers were circulated by Ken Brown.

Norberg were that Charles Dawson, Carmel Adult School principal, had asked the arts commission to take over the children's play at the Forest Theater previously produced by the Carmel school district recreation department. Mrs. Norberg indicated that the arts commission could do this if the school district would co-sponsor the play which, she added, might be arranged to be produced in cooperation with the Community Theatre under the direction of Marcia Hovick.

Final reports by Mrs. Norberg dealt with the progress on planning programs for the free Sunday afternoon programs during the summer at the Forest Theater. Approved by Mrs. Wurzmahn and Mrs. Leoni and Mrs. Norberg was the payment of $150 for one performance of the Beyer String Trio, augmented by two players, provided another program was financed by the musicians' union. Mrs. West had left by this time.

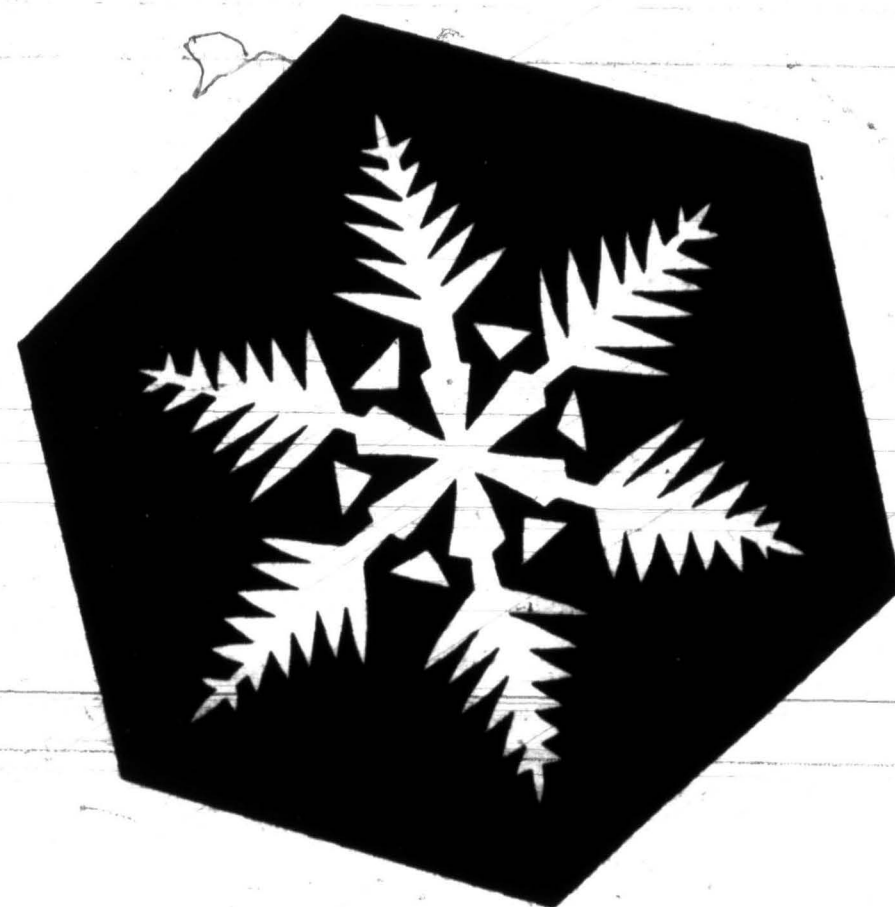

May Be Legal Snag Involving New Theatre Building

Apprehension developed this week over construction of the new theatre and shops at the corner of Dolores and Seventh streets after attorney John Thompson notified architect George Willox that there may be a legal snag concerning the Dolores street setback line.

Involved is an obscure agreement recorded in late 1931, in which property owners agreed not to build any more buildings on the west side of Dolores street within five feet of the property line.

It is understood that Adolph Lafrenz, former owner of Dolores Lodge, instigated the complaint, although no legal action had been taken at noon today.
